Otishertz Bud Bomb Thanksgiving Open Donation

Welcome to this first come first serve open donation. There are 40 available pocket sized jars with meds.

Here is the deal:

1. Before responding be sure you can pick up between 12pm Monday and 4pm Tuesday at Big Blue.
2. This thread is the only place you will find information about this donation. Come here for updates and questions.
3. Thanks to OGF for providing a safe, central place for patients to collect their donations. Do not call Big Blue for more information. All the information is here.
4. If you accept this donation and have an outstanding med request please take it down.
5. Names will be taken from this thread only.

Last time people really appreciated my small open donation so I decided to do it larger and grow a plant just for random strangers.

This time I also prepared little blue glass jars and made an old doodle into a sticker for the cap. They will make good travelers. There is more than twice the amount in each jar as there was in the small baggies last time.

Friends ask, "Why not just fill med requests? "

My take is there are lots of ways to donate. This way I can donate to the broader community. It grew out of an experience I had five months ago when I was starting out with my hand out and was cold told there were others with greater need. I readily agreed and I thanked the nice lady for straightening me out. She later gave me some G-13.

I thought on the reality of sorting needs and rating pain and decided I didn't want to do that. Let the adults do that.

All reasons for wanting this medicine are OK by me. Everyone is welcome to this open donation.

Bud Bomb!

All the best,

otis

The Goods:

40 little blue jars of Snow Tracks from my second crop in Oregon. The jars are 1.7 x 2".

Snow Tracks has hermie Trainwreck genetics and a strong mental effect. I have had a hard time describing the smell other than sweet orange lacquer but my nose may be insane.

ST will throw bananas in late bloom. Otherwise, ST was a healthy, fairly symmetrical, compact plant that was easy to trim and dried rapidly.

It grew in 5 gallon smart pots under two 600w HPS lamps with RO water and GH nutes. Neem and soap only for pest control.

Otis, please put me on your list...

I will be glad to meet you at BB or anywhere on the Springwater Corridor.*

Thanks,
~Todd

*Seven months ago, I moved to Portland, specifically to ride the corridor. I average 25 - 35 miles a day, Rain or shine.

This summer, I ran into Otis 3 or 4 times on the trail... And he showed me around parts of the trail I've never ridden before. Super nice guy.

Mikel,

I got about 4 liter jars out of that plant. I didn't weigh it.

Otis,
 Thanks, but I dont need any. I am sure someone else out there does.
 I was just curious what you yielded with the 5 gallon SP. I am using a 15 gallon and a 10 gallon.

yield

For the harvest fest I weighed out 60g and that equaled two 3/4 liter jars or 1.5L. So if I had just under 4L of dried bud that equaled approximately 160 gram = 5.6 ounces.

I had a larger harvest with the following crop after putting one smart pot in another. I didn't cut or slit the inner pot but will on the next batch where I am putting a 2 in a 5 wedding cake style. 3 in a 7 probably would work well too. I have no experience with the larger pots but you should get much higher yield because as above so below.

Remember to take into account how Snow Tracks will produce a small number male flowers in late bloom.
